We know it's competitive out there. That's why we use a data-driven approach mastered by actual humans that have a vested interest in making sure your campaigns perform at the lowest possible cost per click. No empty promises, only real results you can hold us accountable for. Fox Dealer uses a proprietary tool that blends Google Analytics and AdWords to provide automated recommendations on bid adjustments and optimizations (based on the KPI measurements above) and segments by geography. EMAIL MARKETING

From the Inbox to Your Dealership Floor

Email marketing is an effective channel for customer acquisition. We analyze your market to determine your dealership's targeted shoppers. We then send relevant offers and incentives to those potential customers that reflect the dealer's website. We utilize qualified IP servers and adhere to strict email policies in order to maintain a healthy sender score.

DATA STUDIO REPORTING

Empowering Your Dealership with More Data than the Other Guys

Fox's Data Studio Reporting features real-time data powered by APIs. Most providers only give impressions, clicks and page views. At Fox, we go further and report on how many clicks we got you and how many of those clicks were converted into phone calls and leads. That means we operate off the dollar amount of your average cost per customer contact, not only cost per click. Our monthly reviews take a consultative approach where we review tangibles and may discuss next steps and optimizations.

MEDIA CAMPAIGN MANAGERS

Technology + People = The Best Results

Fox insists on a concierge approach, with real people managing your campaigns rather than relying solely on an automated bidding system. Our director-level staff personally monitors and manages each dealer's campaign on a day-to-day basis – with the goal of making your dealership more competitive and your spend more efficient. Your dedicated account manager ensures that changes are implemented quickly, and your advertising gets the hands-on attention it deserves. For us, it's about transparency and providing you with custom campaigns that convert at the highest rate possible. Our SEM campaigns are more customized than the competition.
